Hopes rise for Kirra

SURFERS campaigning for a solution to the sand build up which has wrecked the Kirra surfing break met with Queensland Climate Change Minister Andrew McNamara in Brisbane on February 16.

The Kirra Point Committee, including co-organiser of the Save Kirra Paddle Out on Australia Day, Andrew McKinnon, are now hopeful the sand pile from the Tweed River Bypass can be reduced.

Mr McKinnon said Mr McNamara had agreed the Kirra problem needed fixing and the Minister was seeking a report from the Environment Protection Authority.
